The Most Excellent Way

The young Christians that made up the church in Corinth were talented and gifted, yet they lacked maturity and love. Their pastor and overseer, the Apostle Paul, was intent on them growing from spiritual infants into mature followers of Jesus. After trying to teach them about spiritual gifts, he said, “Now eagerly desire the greater gifts. And yet I will show you the most excellent way.” (1 Corinthians 12:31 emphasis mine)

What do you suppose was “the most excellent way” that Paul was referring to? If you continue on in his first letter to the Corinthian Church, he describes the way Jesus loved (see 1 Corinthians 13.) Author and Counselor, Les Parrott, in his new book, Love Like That; 5 Relationship Secrets from Jesus, describes his own journey to understand and practice the kind of love that Jesus lived; what Paul would call “the most excellent way.”

I felt like Parrott was describing me in the first paragraph of his book when he made this self-disclosure:

“I’m not a people-pleasing idealist. I live with full-throttle ambition and no shortage of self-interest. I’m impatient and sometimes insecure. I jockey for position and I like exclusive privileges. I can be judgmental, insensitive, petty, and resentful.”

In a strange way, I took comfort in knowing that a successful man like Les Parrott isn't perfect. I found myself eager to learn how to “love like that” from a guy who is made of the same stuff as me.

Parrott concludes the first chapter of his book by saying, Loving more like Jesus is more obtainable than you might imagine. His teaching and example reveal at least five distinct qualities of his love:

When you love like Jesus,

- you become more mindful—less detached.
- you become more approachable—less exclusive.
- you become more grace-full—less judgmental.
- you become more bold—less fearful.
- you become more self-giving—less self-absorbed.”

In the coming 5 weeks at QFMC (Sunday mornings and Mid-week Connect), we will set ourselves to learning to love like Jesus loved; to “love like that.” Loving like Jesus is doable. You don’t have to be perfect or “all cleaned up” to learn how, but you do have to be humble and teachable.

So I invite you to join us, flaws and all, as we “put on humility and teachability” and learn to love like Jesus. It is the most excellent way!

Your brother and friend,
shaun

In this Bible study series, Dr. Les Parrott examines Jesus's life and character traits to give practical definition to what it means to love like Jesus. The Holy Spirit invites us to trade detachment, exclusivity, judgment, fear, and self-concern for mindfulness, approachability, grace, boldness, and self-giving. He empowers us to love like Jesus, and frees us to experience genuine joy.

There is no cost for this event. Questions regarding childcare or dessert contact Julie Schaapman (787-5963). All other questions regarding this event contact Pastor Shaun (723-8294). Sign up for "Mid-Week Connect" at the Information Counter in the front foyer.
